

Unique Trees Enrich a Unique World

Ever walk through a forest in your favorite game and notice the same tree model used over and over again? Well, it's the details that separate a good world from an outstanding one, and having a diverse and unique forest will bring more realism and character to your world.

Phytologist gives you the ability to enrich your world with unique trees, offering variety and in-depth accuracy based on tree type. Allowing users to select from 77 different species, 4 billion unique trees within that species, all while keeping realistic accuracy down to the leaves, needles, and bark. Phytologist will take your forest from repetitive, to life-like individuality never experienced before.

If you want an older, worn-down-looking tree standing alone in the dead of winter Phytologist has you covered. With the ability to age trees forward and backward through time as well as selecting a season, you'll never have to sacrifice the details no matter what you select.

Giving you the ability to customize your trees down to the bark, Phytologist gives its users an easy way to add realistic trees to any environment. No more copy and paste tree models, enhance your user's experience with unique trees that have individual character and detail.
